Nothing lasts forever, is still Shauntrell Marisol Jamison's favorite phrase. Her intense belief in the phrase is the reason she is the most hardheaded of the Jamison family. Emotionally challenged. That is what she's called. Because that is what she is. No one can make her see that her past and her present relationship with her mother have had an affect on her willingness to become involved with a man beyond the physical. Dray Lee refuses to let Soul push him away. He doesn't care how hard she tries. He knows she loves him. Even if she doesn't say it. Even if she doesn't admit it. He wants to spend the rest of his life with her. And when he finds out that Soul is pregnant with is child, he tries to convince her that they should get married. Of course, Soul doesn't agree.

Ready for love? No, Soul is still not ready to accept the love Dray is willingly offering her. Not only isn't she ready to accept it, she refuses to accept it. She also refuses to admit to herself that she feels more than lust for him. Then she has an impromptu talk with her grandfather. Will her talk with her grandfather finally open her eyes? Or will she continue to fight to keep love out of her relationship with Dray?
