Local news reporter Avery Shaw's week is going from bad to worse.

It's bad enough there's a dead body in the parking lot of the paper, but when the investigation into the death leads to drugs – and a tie to her own family – things continue to spiral downward.

If she could focus on that, though, it would just be another normal week. Constant run-ins with both the men in her life – neither of whom seems to be showing her the level of respect she feels she deserves – are making things more stressful than they need to be.

Avery is going to get the story – even if it means taking down her own cousin. Surviving to file that story, though, that's a whole other problem altogether.

Warning: This book is snarky and sarcastic. Read only if you're not easily offended -- and you like to laugh. This is the second book in the Avery Shaw Mystery series.
